

Inferno Creia

By Johnathan Machler

I have had the great pleasure of getting the chance to read Dante's fabulous writings. Dante's writings are so great they bring me to tears. And so by you doing this you have accomplished your task. Such a dark and dreary place could have not have been better described. As a place of fear, darkness and separation many are forced to feel remorse. Where none would be spared for what they did and so justice would have its reign. This justice is instigated by Gods wrath to keep a barrier between himself and Satan. This was said to create fear in the hearts of many who would even think to go to such a place. Thus maybe many would open their eyes to reality to see the truth. if this were did not ring true hell would not a city of woe but of many rejoicing in a state of happiness. For anything that is in this world today will also be found there for it was not made by a divine Architect doing not out of love but with limited intelligence. For those who chose the path of sin would simply be cleansed of it. And they would not have to suffer the pain and liberation to be absolved by there sins. By accepting the a gift of salvation given to us by God. Their are many who do not accept this gift and so they fall to the prey of Satan. Sinners are attached to what they do and trying to accept this gift. Means that they will have live to better expectations they perceive as an impossibility. This similar to that of Frodo's struggles in the book Lord of the Rings. He wants to keep the ring for himself in the belief of eternal happiness. But to do so his friends and he would suffer an Impending doom. He keeps the ring so close to hand it is almost like he had strings attached to it and had no choice whether to use it or not. Meaning he had almost no control over what he was doing. As if he were a puppet guided by strings. In life we may be temporarily blind to something and its consequence. This explains why we may have warning label on things that may not even be considered dangerous. For him Sin was his God and earth was his mover. "Wherefore, as by one man sin entered into the world, and death by sin; and so death passed upon all men, for that all have sinned"- (Rom. 5:12). And this was an offense that was committed by Adam and Eve in the Garden. We are bound by this sin, and we must come to realize its constraints and implications, So we can have a better connection with God.
